We All Live Here

Jojo Moyes

Read by Jenna Coleman

The #1 Sunday Times bestselling author, whose books so many love, brings us a fresh, contemporary story of a woman and her unruly blended family.

Welcome to the Kennedy household.

Lila wrote a bestseller about keeping your marriage alive, before discovering her ex was playing happy families with another woman. A woman she sees everyday at school pick-up.

Bill, her stepdad, moved in after Lila's mum died. He's kind, old-fashioned and driving her absolutely nuts.

Celie, Lila's eldest, hates school. Hates it so much she's stopped going. Her mother's fine with that – because she doesn't know yet.

Violet is nine and sings age-inappropriate rap songs, laughs at fart jokes and Lila dearly hopes she'll never, ever change.

And Truant the dog has just bitten the American actor who's suddenly landed on the Kennedys' doorstep.

This is Gene – Lila's estranged father, and no one's idea of a role model. He walked out on Lila and her mum years ago – and wherever he goes domestic discord follows. Because Gene's presence changes things in unexpected ways. Something is happening to the Kennedy household – but what is it? And will it break, or save, their family?

Jojo Moyes is the #1 New York Times bestselling author of The Giver of Stars, Me Before You, The Girl You Left Behind, amongst many others

'Funny, touching and full of wisdom: Jojo Moyes at her very best.' – Sophie Kinsella, #1 bestselling author

Three Days in June

Anne Tyler

Read by J. Smith-Cameron

The happily ever after is only part of the story. A funny, touching, hopeful gem about love, marriage and second chances, from bestselling author Anne Tyler.

It's the day before her daughter's wedding and things are not going well for Gail Baines. First thing, she loses her job – or quits, depending who you ask. Then her ex-husband Max turns up at her door expecting to stay for the festivities. He doesn't even have a suit. Instead, he's brought memories, a shared sense of humour – and a cat looking for a new home.

Just as Gail is wondering what's next, their daughter Debbie discovers her groom has been keeping a secret ...

As the big day dawns, the exes just can't agree on what's best for Debbie. Gail is seriously worried, while Max seems more concerned with whether to opt for the salmon or prime rib at the reception, if they make it that far.

The day after the wedding, Gail and Max prepare to go their separate ways again. But all the questions about the future of the happy couple have stirred up the past for Gail. Because 'happy' takes many forms, and sometimes the younger generation has much to teach the older about secrets, acceptance and taking the rough with the smooth.

Anne Tyler is the bestselling author of Breathing Lessons, The Accidental Tourist, Dinner at the Homesick Restaurant, Ladder of Years, Back When We Were Grown-ups, Digging to America, A Spool of Blue Thread and French Braid

Marble Hall Murders

Magpie Murders #3

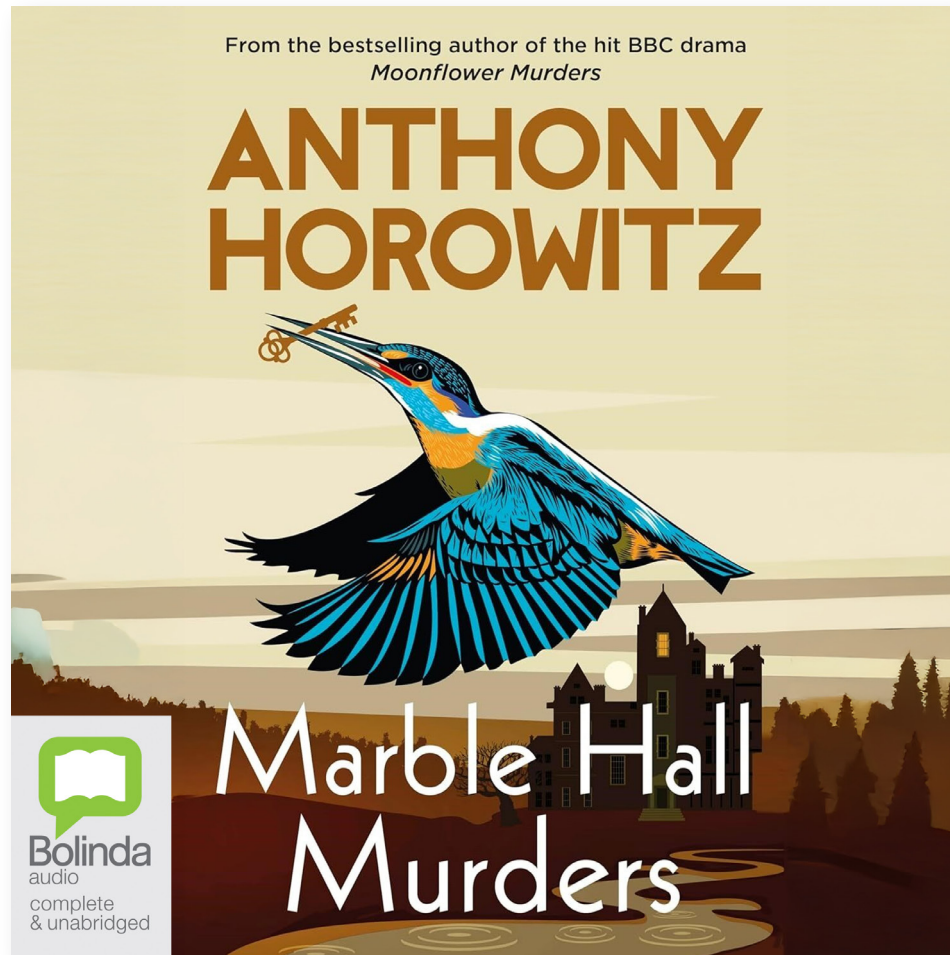

Anthony Horowitz

Narrator to Come

Adult New Release

Crime & Thriller | April 2025

Murder links past and present once again in this mind-boggling metafictional mystery from Anthony Horowitz featuring detective Atticus Pünd and editor Susan Ryeland.

Susan Ryeland has had enough of murder.

She's edited two novels about the famous detective, Atticus Pünd, and both times she's come close to being killed. Now she's back in England and she's been persuaded to work on a third.

The new 'continuation' novel is by Eliot Crace, grandson of Miriam Crace who was the biggest selling children's author in the world until her death exactly 20 years ago.

Eliot believes that Miriam was deliberately poisoned. And when he tells Susan that he has hidden the identity of Miriam's killer inside his book, Susan knows she's in trouble once again.

As Susan works on Pünd's Last Case, a story set in an exotic villa in the South of France, she uncovers more and more parallels between the past and the present, the fictional and the real world – until suddenly she finds that she has become a target herself.

It seems that someone in Eliot's family doesn't want the book to be written. And they will do anything to prevent it."

Anthony Horowitz is one of the UK's most prolific and successful writers, unique in being active in both adult and YA fiction, TV, theatre and journalism

Several of Horowitz's previous novels were instant New York Times bestsellers

Horowitz's breakthrough murder mystery, Magpie Murders, was adapted into a miniseries for PBS

This Boy's Heart

Scenes from an Irish Childhood

John Creedon

Read by the Author

Adult New Release

Autobiography | April 2025

John Creedon is a renowned storyteller. Following on from the sensational success of An Irish Folklore Treasury, here he seeks to capture the folklore of his own childhood.

John Creedon's scenes from an Irish childhood paint a colourful and sometimes hilarious picture of a changing Ireland and the growing pains of boyhood.

Set in a city-centre household bustling with humanity, the cast includes a dozen children and another dozen adults, including aunts, an American writer, an African doctor, and a Scottish bookie. The streets outside overflow with brewery horses, beat clubs, dance halls, nuns, priests, a Turkish delight shop and a pub where a child could sit up on a high stool and smoke his cigarette in peace.

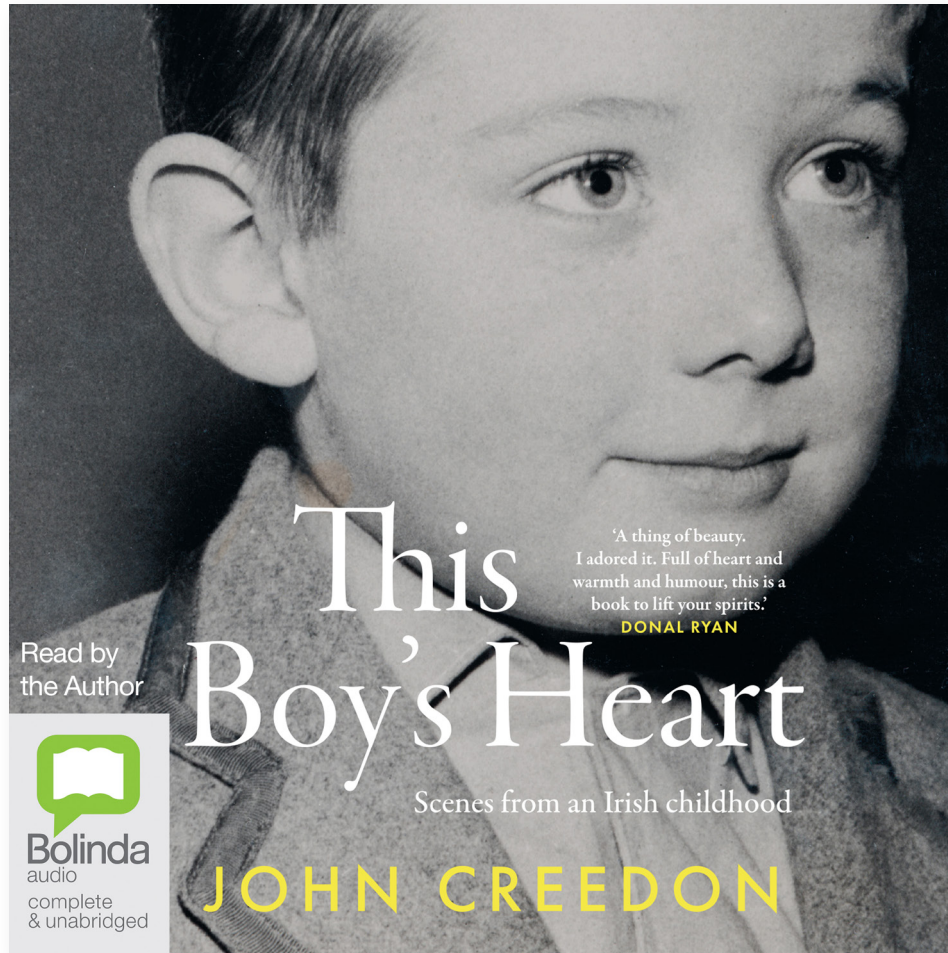

Creedon spent the sixties striding the streets of inner-city Cork, with summers 'farmed out' to friends and family in the countryside. His stories are set in wildly contrasting worlds, from urban exotica to spacious meadows, from tales of the open road to his classroom of over fifty boys. These are stories of friendship, fun, family and folklore. The result is a heart-warming and revealing journey into an Irish boyhood.

John Creedon is one of Ireland's best-loved broadcasters. He currently produces and presents The John Creedon Show on RTÉ Radio 1

Creedon has also presented popular television series on RTÉ 1, including Creedon's Wild Atlantic Way, Creedon's Epic East, Creedon's Shannon and several series of Creedon's Atlas of Ireland

That Place We Call Home, Creedon's first book, was a bestseller, and his second book, An Irish Folklore Treasury, won the Best Irish-Published Book at the An Post Book Awards

Deep Cuts

Holly Brickley

Read by Jayme Mattler

The incredibly buzzy debut that everyone is talking about – a love story about two people pulled apart by the same force that draws them together: music.

The first time Joe plays Percy one of his songs in his college room in 2000, she instantly realises three things:

- One, she is watching a star in the making.
- Two, she can shape his music into something extraordinary.
- Three, she will always be on the sidelines.

She swallows her jealousy and throws herself into collaboration, transforming Joe's songs into indie hits with her blistering critiques.

But there's an undercurrent to the music they're making – something undeniably electric, hurtling towards love. And then, almost inevitably, towards heartbreak. As Joe steps into the spotlight, can Percy bear to watch on in silence? And can he exist there without her?

Perfect for listeners who loved Tomorrow and Tomorrow and Tomorrow, One Day, Daisy Jones & the Six and High Fidelity

Holly Brickley studied English at UC Berkeley and received an MFA in fiction from Columbia University

'Tender as a ballad and pleasurable as a pop song, Deep Cuts is both a nostalgic romp into the indie sleaze era of the early aughts and a timeless love story of creative collaboration, competition, and ambition.' – Coco Mellors, New York Times bestselling author of Blue Sisters and Cleopatra and Frankenstein

I'll Never Call Him Dad Again

Caroline Darian

Read by the Author & Heather Long

An astonishingly brave and moving audiobook from Caroline Darian, daughter of infamous Dominique Pelicot, detailing how her mother rebuilt her life as the world follows a trial that will go down in history.

In November 2020, Caroline Darian received a call from the police in Carpentras. Her father was in police custody. The seizure of his computer equipment revealed the unthinkable – since 2013, he had drugged his wife before handing her over, in a state of unconsciousness, to men, from all ages and stages of life.

With exceptional courage, Darian recounts the earth-shattering discovery that a loved one, her own father, is capable of the worst. But more importantly, she shares the remarkable story of her mother Gisèle and how she carried on living, without self-pity, while learning to manage all of the things her husband once took care of. She shares how her mother managed to maintain her joie de vivre in circumstances none of us could imagine.

Gisèle has won acclaim around the world after she gave up her right to anonymity and opted for a public trial, a trial in which Caroline herself has testified, turning the tables – the shame no longer borne by the victims in silence but directed, at last, to the abusers. Caroline has set up her own campaign to address the issue of chemical submission in the home.

Caroline Darian is the daughter of Dominique Pelicot and Gisèle Pelicot

Darian's father, Dominique Pelicot, was tried and convicted in France for the terrible crimes he committed against his wife

Since the publication of Darian's testimony, she has founded the association '#MendorsPas: Stop Chemical Submission: Don't Put Me Under' in order to campaign for better care of victims and training health professionals

Smitten

Dr Tomas Bellamy

Read by John Hopkins

A much-needed exploration of the psychology of infatuation, how to recognise it, and how to move beyond it towards a healthier experience of love.

Butterflies in the stomach, intrusive thoughts, fantasies about imaginary scenarios, mood swings from euphoria to despair ... aren't these all the familiar hallmarks of new love? Not quite. These are characteristics of the psychological state of limerence, an intense longing for someone, also known as obsessive, passionate or addictive love that can become unhealthy.

Millions of people will experience limerence at some point in their life, and in this audiobook, Dr Tom Bellamy explores advances in neuroscience since the term was coined in the 1970s to shed light on this little-understood element of the human experience.

Discover:

- what drives limerence
- how to recognise limerence in yourself and others
- how to manage the phases of addiction to another person
- how to move past it to sustain longer, more fulfilling relationships

With supportive advice about next steps, this audiobook will help listeners struggling with unwanted feelings to find emotional equilibrium.

Dr Tom Bellamy is an academic neuroscientist and Associate Professor of Pharmacology at the University of Nottingham

Bellamy was awarded a PhD in Neuroscience from University College London in 2001, and held a personal fellowship at the Babraham Institute in Cambridge from 2004 to 2010

A Journey through Time and Place

Kate Grenville

Read by the Author

Adult New Release

History | April 2025

A gripping audiobook from one of Australia's most celebrated authors, diving into what it means to live on land stolen from others.

What does it mean to be on land that was taken from other people? Now that we know how the taking was done, what do we do with that knowledge?

Kate Grenville is no stranger to the past. Her success and fame as a writer exploded when she published The Secret River in 2005, a bestseller based on the story of her convict ancestor, an early settler on the Hawkesbury River.

More than two decades on, and following the defeat of the Voice referendum, Grenville is still grappling with what it means to descend from people who were, as she puts it, 'on the sharp edge of the moving blade that was colonisation'.

So she decides to go on a kind of pilgrimage, back through the places her family stories happened, and put the stories and the First People back into the same frame, on the same country, to try to think about those questions.

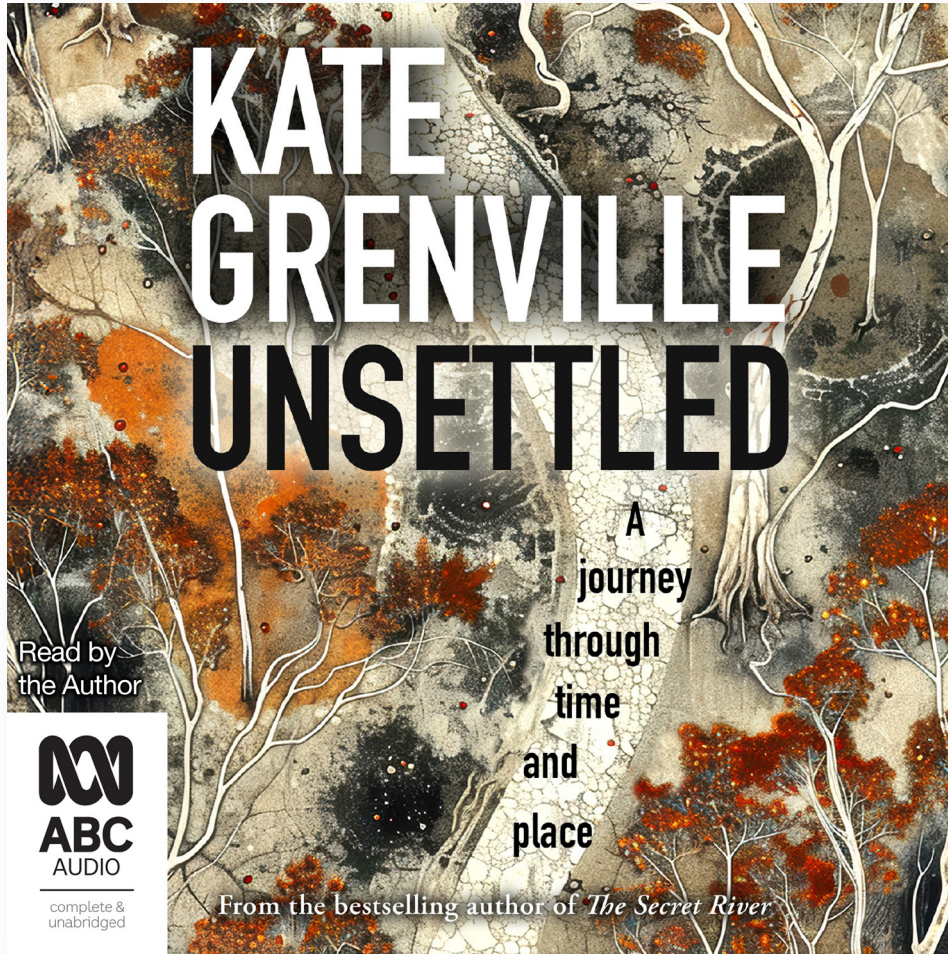

This gripping audiobook is the result of that journey.

Kate Grenville is the author of international bestseller The Secret River, which was awarded local and overseas prizes, adapted for the stage and as an acclaimed television miniseries, and is now a much-loved classic

Grenville's other novels include The Lieutenant, the Orange Prize winner The Idea of Perfection, A Room Made of Leaves and, most recently, Restless Dolly Maunder, shortlisted for the Women's Prize for Fiction

Grenville's works of non-fiction include One Life: My Mother's Story, The Case Against Fragrance and Elizabeth Macarthur's Letters

'Grenville is celebrated among the canon of Australian novelists, but she's also a lucid non-fiction writer.' – Sydney Morning Herald

Grantlee Kieza

Read by Elizabeth Parisi

The inspiring true story of the swimming champion and Hollywood star, from the bestselling author of Sister Viv and The Remarkable Mrs Reibey.

Born into a daring, musical family in 1886, Annette Kellerman was a force of nature and made for the stage – her first love – and encouraged to defy social norms from a young age. But after she was diagnosed with rickets as a child she took up swimming for therapy, and soon she became an Australian champion, beating boys, breaking records and astonishing huge crowds by diving from great heights. By 1905, Kellerman was 18 and on her way to England in an attempt to swim the Channel and challenge endurance records in the Thames.

Hollywood embraced her and she became the first great sex symbol of silent films, with her risqué and provocative costumes – and sometimes no costume at all. But despite all her fame Kellerman always saw the promotion of health, fitness and independence for women as her biggest and most lasting achievement, and her influence and spirit changed the lives of millions.

Dying Rose

Douglas Smith, Kathryn Bermingham,

Emily Olle & Gemma Jones

Read by Douglas Smith

Adult New Release

True Crime | April 2025

An investigation into the deaths of six Aboriginal women and the police responses that left families reeling.

'If you think it's hard being a white woman in Australia, try being a black woman.' These were the words that set a team of journalists at the Adelaide Advertiser on an investigation into the tragic deaths of six young Indigenous women.

It was Courtney Hunter-Hebberman who uttered those words, up on stage at an International Women's Day event. A shocking number of Indigenous women die every year by murder or suicide, and Courtney's daughter, Rose, was one of them. Rose's apparent death by suicide at 19, in a run-down backyard shed, had left her mother craving answers – answers the police seemed unable to give her.

Inspired by Courtney's courage and grief, The Advertiser team hoped to shed light on Rose's death and put Courtney's mind at rest. But what they found, as their investigation of one death rolled into another five, was disturbing. Lack of urgency, sloppy searches, poor communication and assumptions by police were just some of the problems encountered in these cases.

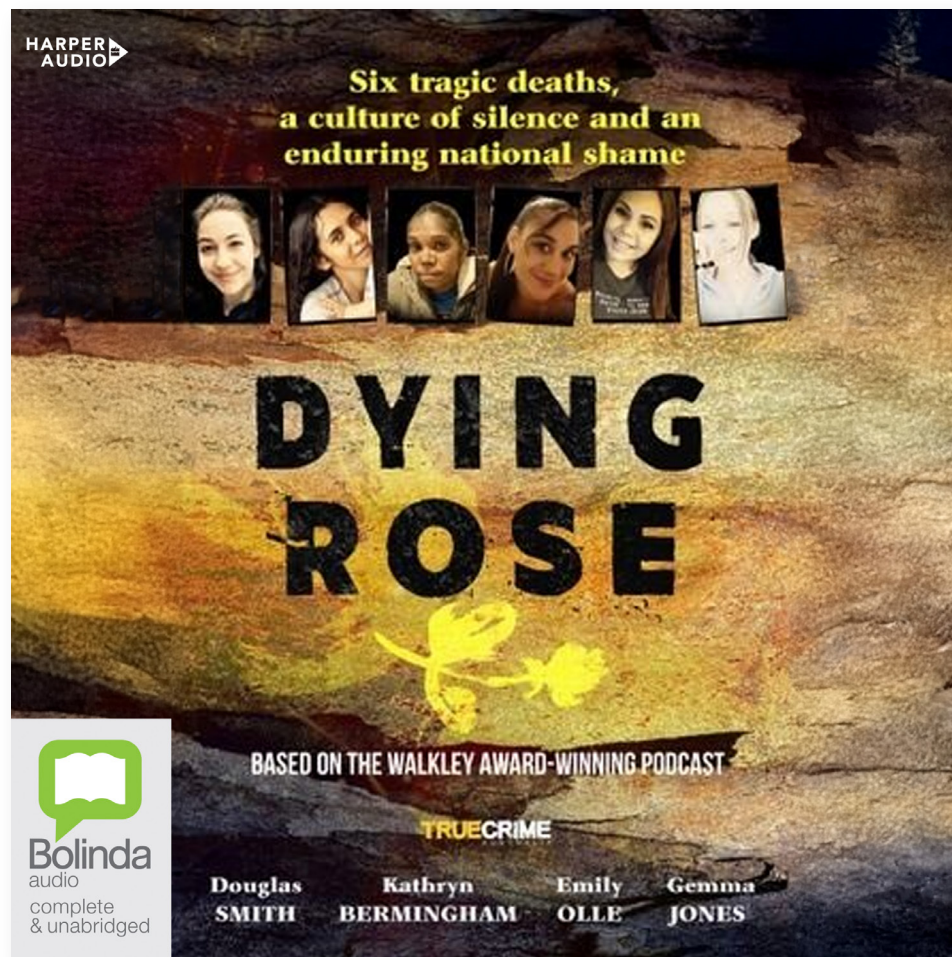

As the team probed further, the answers, or lack thereof, gave rise to even bigger questions about whether Indigenous Australians, especially women, have a voice, and if they are heard when they speak.

Douglas Smith has been both Queensland and South Australian correspondent for NITV, and now covers Indigenous affairs for The Advertiser

Kathryn Bermingham is state political editor at The Advertiser, who covers everything from legal affairs to the disability sector, industrial relations and the public service

Emily Olle is a specialist digital reporter at The Advertiser with a background in television, radio and AFL – as a journalist, she has a focus on youth affairs, politics and social issues

Gemma Jones is the Editor of The Advertiser in Adelaide and is responsible for South Australia and the Northern Territory across News Corp Australia's digital and print assets

Living Hot

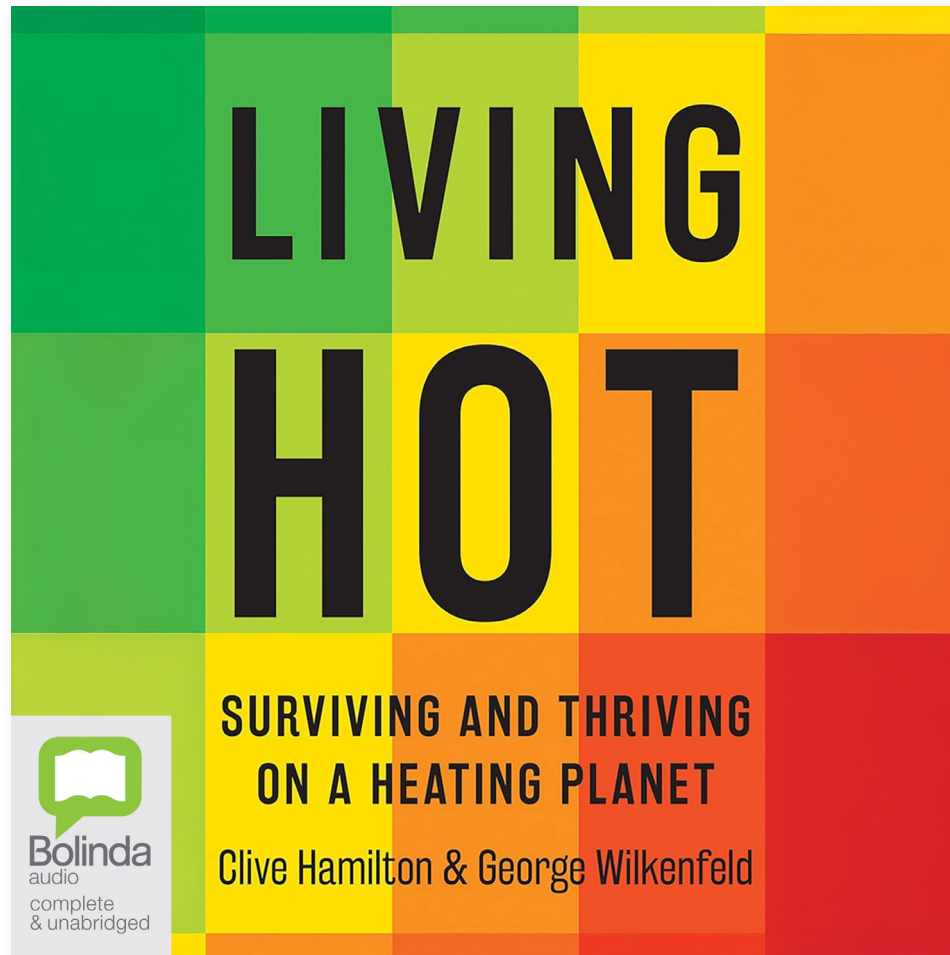

Surviving and Thriving on a Heating Planet

Clive Hamilton & George Wilkenfeld

Narrator to Come

Adult New Release

Science & Technology | April 2025

The blunt truth about our current climate change predicament and a new approach to what we need to do about it.

Living Hot tells the blunt truth about our current climate change predicament: it's time to get cracking on making Australia resilient to intensifying climate extremes. If we prepare well, we can give ourselves a fighting chance to preserve some of the best of what we have, build stronger and fairer communities, find a path through the escalating pressures of a warming world – and even find new ways to flourish.

To get there, we must leave behind both the doomism and the wishful thinking currently holding us back. In Living Hot, highly respected academic Clive Hamilton and policy consultant George Wilkenfeld shift the emphasis away from reducing carbon emissions and on to making Australia resilient, outlining a vision for an all-embracing and on-going program of investment and social change to protect ourselves from the ravages of a changing climate.

Living Hot is a sober assessment of the challenges we face, and a farsighted road map for what we must do next if we want to survive and even thrive on our heating planet.

Clive Hamilton is an Australian academic and author of Silent Invasion, Requiem for a Species, Growth Fetish and Defiant Earth. His work has also appeared in The Guardian, The New York Times and Foreign Affairs

Hoodie Economics

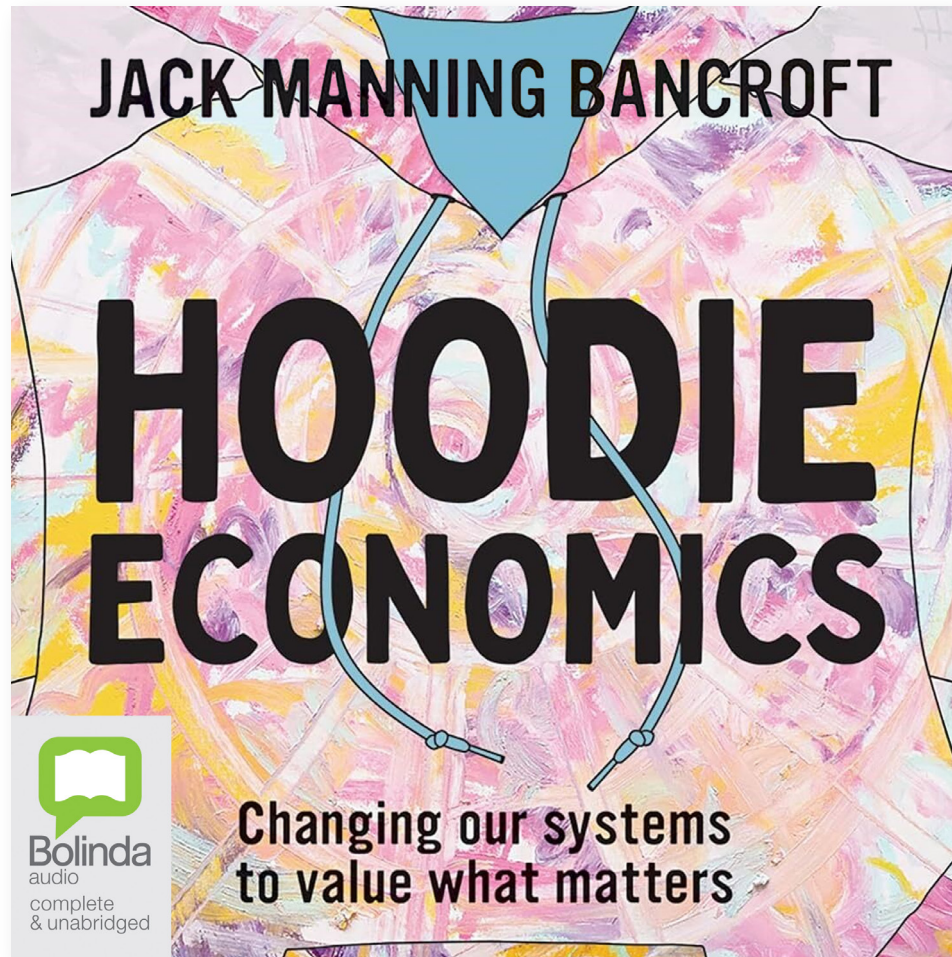

Changing Our Systems to Value What Matters

Jack Manning Bancroft

Read by the Author

Adult New Release

Business & Finance | April 2025

A re-imagining of economic systems, drawing on thinking from outside the margins and pushing the focus from capitalism to relationships.

Economics is what we value, and in that way, economics is for everyone. But modern financial empires have shut out the many to instead prioritise 'limitless' market growth, attention economies and stock profits for the very few. We have been denied our sense of agency and taught to focus on the self above all, and the biggest stock that is down is our relationships – both with each other and with nature. But we have the powerful tools of imagination and exchange that will allow us to reshape economics for everyone.

Hoodie Economics draws on alternative intelligence sources to look at the patterns of money, ownership and reductive thinking that we have inherited, and how we have the potential to create a new (old) foundation of equality – relational economies instead of transactional ones, and networks that are truly social. Just as Jack Manning Bancroft sets out to reimagine economics, Hoodie Economics rethinks the economics book, inviting all listeners to find their own way through its narratives and to feel energised by its ideas. In increasingly anxious and tumultuous times, this audiobook offers a mind-expanding economic philosophy that centres unlikely connections, knowledge sharing, custodianship and joy.

Jack Manning Bancroft is the CEO and founder of AIME, an award-winning company that aims to create change and empower children and young people through the simple tool of mentoring

'This book, written with humour and heart, invites society to rethink what we value and transform how we understand our world.' – Coco McGrath, Books+Publishing

The Art of Losing

Alice Zeniter

Read by Jeed Saddy

Across three generations, three wars, two continents and the mythic waters of the Mediterranean, one family's history leads to an inevitable question: What price do our descendants pay for the choices that we make?

Naïma has always known that her family came from Algeria – but up until now, that meant very little to her. Born and raised in France, her knowledge of that foreign country is limited to what she's learned from her grandparents' tiny flat in a crumbling French sink estate: the food cooked for her, the few precious things they brought with them when they fled.

On the past, her family is silent. Why was her grandfather Ali forced to leave? Was he a harki – an Algerian who worked for and supported the French during the Algerian War of Independence? Once a wealthy landowner, how did he become an immigrant scratching a living in France?

Naïma's father, Hamid, claims to remember nothing. Now, Naïma will see Algeria for herself, will ask the questions about her family's history that, until now, have had no answers.

Alice Zeniter is the author of Sombre Dimanche which won the Prix du Livre Inter, the Prix des lecteurs de l'Express and the Prix de la Closerie des Lilas and Juste Avant l'Oubli which won the Prix Renaudot des lycéens

Reece Carter

Read by Gabriella Russo

Children's New Release

Children | April 2025

The enchanting conclusion to the bestselling and highly acclaimed Elston-Fright Tales series.

There are two things about the Soul Spinners' greatest creation on which everyone agrees – one, that the Notes have the power to grant a single wish, and two ... that the Notes are lost.

When a ghost-eating wraith appears in the forgotten seaside town of Elston-Fright searching for the magical Notes, it's enough to make any kid ghost a bit nervous. Faye de Corail may have the townsfolk under her spell, but Girl, Corpse and their friends are determined to stay out of her way.

After old foes resurface and a child is snatched, Girl and Corpse begin to piece together a sinister plan that not only threatens the lives of their friends, families and the people of Elston-Fright, it may send them all to Death Proper too.

Somehow, at the heart of the mystery, lies the truth about both kid ghosts. Who are Girl and Corpse really? What is their connection to the lost Notes? And will they find answers before it's too late?

Reece Carter is the author of the bestselling A Girl Called Corpse (released as The Girl, The Ghost and the Lost Name in the UK)

'Just the right mix of eerie and bleak – think Neil Gaiman by way of Roald Dahl and Tim Burton – with moments of levity.' – Books+Publishing

'As spine-tinglingly creepy as an old, abandoned cemetery. I loved this with my entire soul!' – Shirley Marr, award-winning author of A Glasshouse of Stars (on A Girl Called Corpse)
